Critical Incident Response – Command and Control

Course Description:

This two-day Leadership course is Incident Command System, National Incident Management System centric, combining facilitated discussions and classroom exercises to solicit growth customized to the agency of the student. Designed specifically for Command Staff, First Line Supervisors, and aspiring supervisors. It transcends the basics of setting the stage for elevated tactical response and guides students through global critical incident response, control, and command.

Day One: Dives into essential tactics, techniques, and procedures to effectively respond to, control, and command critical incidents from the onset.

Day Two: Focuses on the seamless handoff to the investigative branch and its continued management until the scene's conclusion.

This course aims to equip students with leadership methodologies, techniques, and procedures for both initial response and the ongoing management of critical incidents in law enforcement; guiding leadership methodologies, techniques, and procedures in the response, command, and control from the initial response to continued management of critical incidents law enforcement faces every day.

Course Duration and Fee:

2-Days:
8 am to 5 pm
