This one-day Use of Force overview goes beyond policies and mandated training to uncover the “why” behind the laws. Officers gain the foundation to evaluate every force encounter with clarity and confidence. Critical for all ranks, this course covers Foundational Case Law, threat assessment, immediate classification, proactive Duty to Intervene strategies, de-escalation, and more. Equip yourself with the mindset and tools to handle force situations effectively.

This is the second level in the Use of Force Trilogy, designed for officers, supervisors, and executives. Building on the fundamentals or your agency’s basic use of force program, this one-day course prepares members to manage force-related incidents effectively. Learn supervisory oversight, incident scene management, and the executive responsibility of building community trust before, during, and after an event.

This one-day program discusses the ongoing evolution of force-related events and how organizational leadership can utilize lessons learned from every situation to enhance our team and practices. The program focuses on the meaningful review process, officer development interviews, incorporation of lessons learned into a 360-degree organizational improvement model and more. This is a must for ALL Command Staff, Internal Affairs, Training Officers, and instructors.
